

NETLIBRARY BOOKS

You can access nearly 35,000 e-books by clicking on Netlibrary on the LRC's resources page or by going directly to www.netlibrary.com.

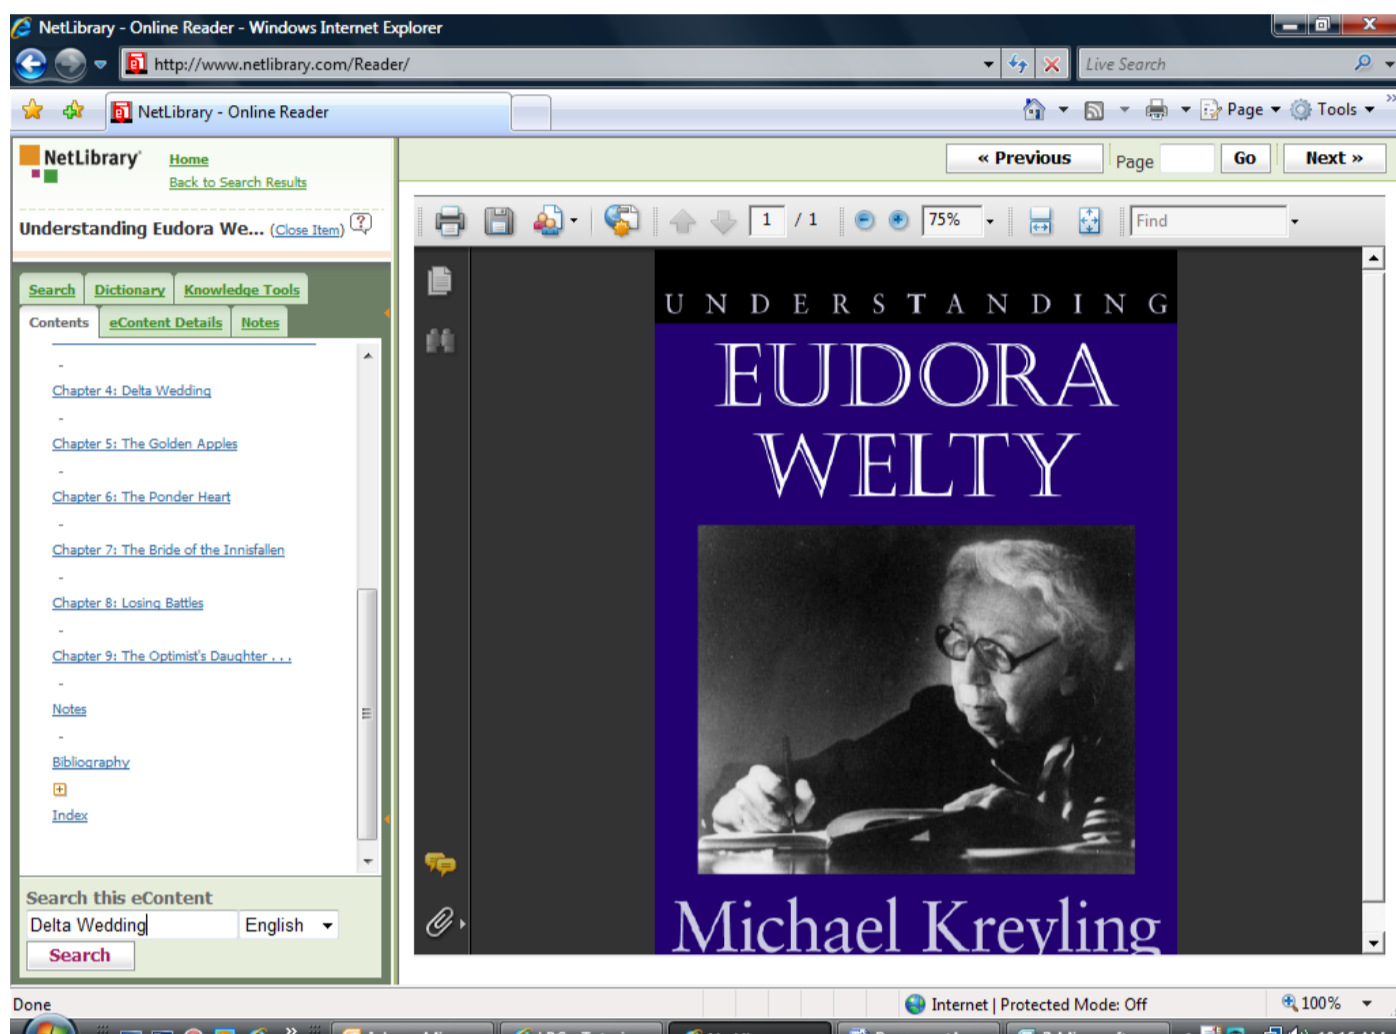

There are several ways to search for e-books. If you choose to search by full-text, every word of every book will be searched. A keyword or subject search is usually more effective.

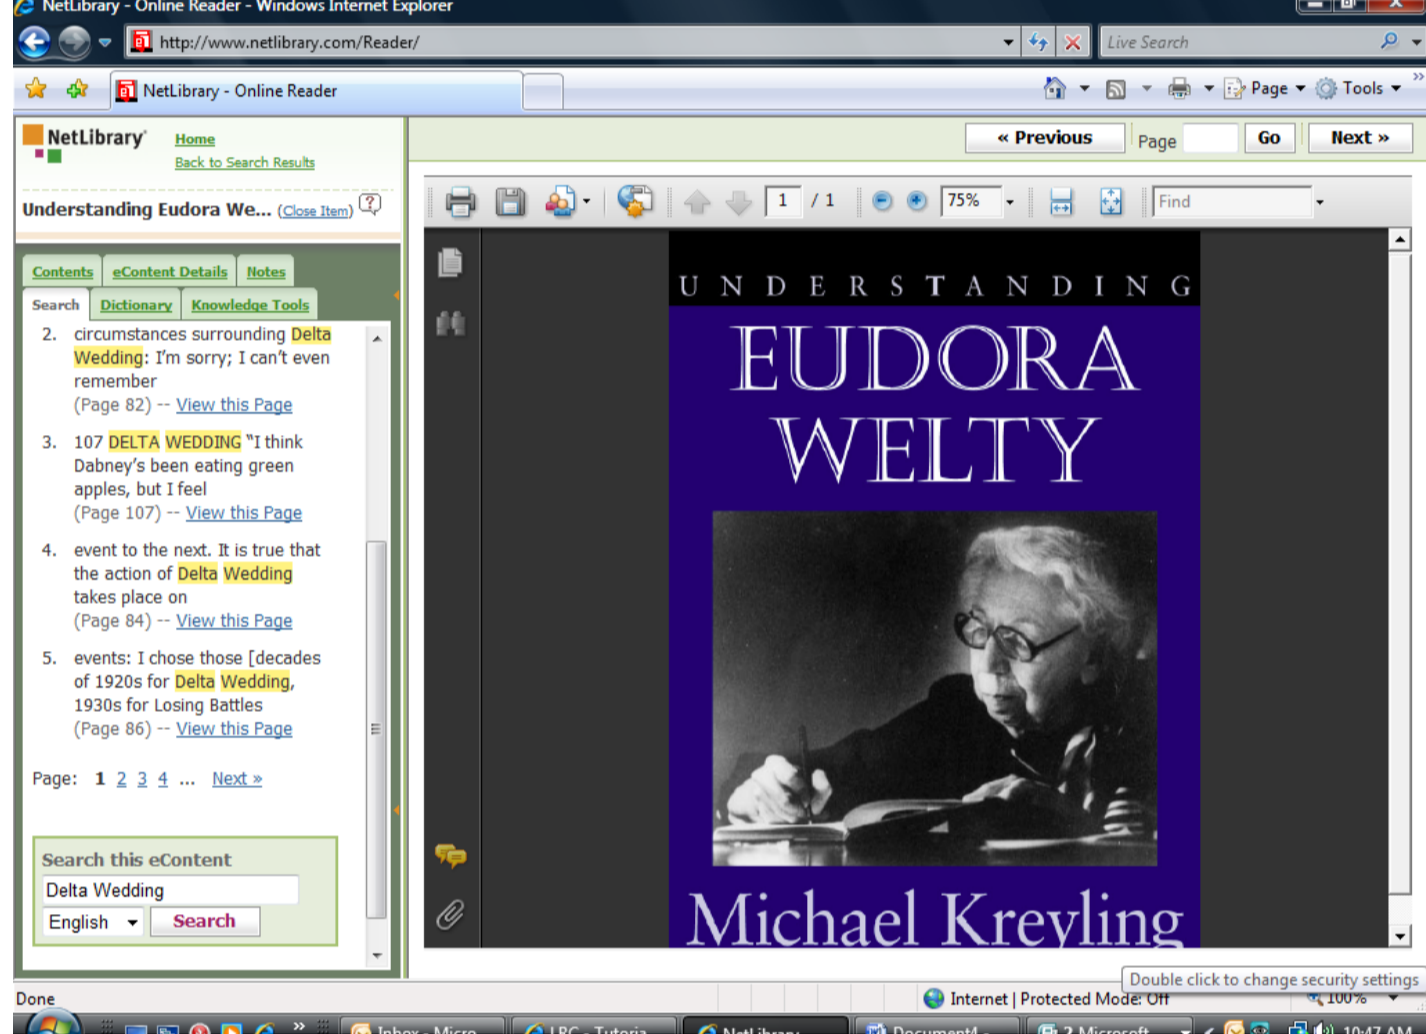

When the results list appears, you can click on View this Book to read the one you have chosen.

You can search the book's contents by clicking on the index or by typing into the Search this E-Content box the particular topic you are seeking. This blank can be found on the lower left. Hit the enter key.

To access the pages you need, you can click View this page on the selections shown above the e-content search box.

When the needed page appears on the screen, you can copy and paste text, or you can save or print that page. You can only print or save one page at a time.

If you need additional information about Netlibrary, please call the library at 862-8378 or 620-5092. Don't forget that thousands of additional e-books are available by clicking on Ebrary on the LRC resources page.
